

Provider Certification Frequently Asked Questions

How do I become a certified waiver provider?

The Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities (DODD) must certify agencies and/or individuals that provide Home and Community Based Waivers (HCBS) and Supported Living (SL).

Provider Certification is the focal point for evaluating applications to determine if an applicant meets the standards that govern the HCBS Waiver and SL.

Applications are reviewed on an individualized basis and must include specific qualifications and/or documentation to support how the applicant meets or exceeds the service requirements. Providers certified to deliver Medicaid services will receive a Medicaid number necessary to obtain reimbursement. Becoming a certified provider does not mean that the provider is an employee of the State of Ohio, the Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities or of the provider's local County Board of Developmental Disabilities. Providers are independent business owners who are certified to provide services to individuals on a Level One (L1), Independent Options (IO) or Self Empowered Life Funding (SELF) Medicaid Waiver.

Certified providers are responsible for contacting the local county boards of developmental disabilities to advise them of their certification. If selected to deliver services through the HCBS waiver and/or the SL program, providers will contract directly with the county board.

An individual or agency is prohibited from providing any service until certification is obtained from the DODD.

How do I obtain clients?

Once you are certified, any individual receiving Supported Living, Individual Options waiver, Level One waiver, SELF waiver or Family Resources from a Board of DD may request your services. The Ohio Department of Developmental Disabilities (DODD) strives to assure that each individual is given free choice of provider. DODD certification is valid statewide, but you must indicate prospective service counties on DODD's certification application. Providers are solely responsible for the accuracy of their online information. Per the OAC 5123:2-2-01, as a certified provider you must provide and maintain your current United States mail and electronic mail addresses with DODD. You should also contact MCBDDS and request to be added to the Provider List. Once on the list, you will begin to receive Service Requests which is the primary means of communicating the desire of an individual to obtain a provider. Receipt of DODD certification does not guarantee selection as a service provider.

In this era of technology, there are many entities that offer web-based training for CPR and First Aid certification. Although, these entities have credentials, their performance measures may differ significantly. The standards of performance the department recognizes follow the prescribed format equivalent to the American Red Cross. A prescribed format is defined as lecture, demonstrations via video or conferencing, and hands-on training in a ‘practice while you watch’ format. To obtain CPR/First Aid certification, the web based testing is permissible when followed with an actual skills competency in person demonstration.

Applicants who prefer to obtain CPR/First Aid via web based training in lieu of classroom training for initial certification must submit with their application written verification that the entity’s curriculum is equivalent to the American Red Cross prescribed format. The online training portion only does not meet the training criteria. You must also do the hands-on skills portion to complete the online training. Proof of that skills session is also required along with the online course completion. Individuals certified as an EMT are required to submit their EMT certification as evidence of completion of CPR/First Aid. Applicants currently certified must maintain written verification of the entity’s curriculum in the event of a compliance review.

If You're Interested in Opening a Group Home

The Montgomery County Board of DDS does not license group homes. Ohio no longer licenses new group homes for people with developmental and intellectual disabilities.

We do not expect any new development of “group homes” in the near future.

Individuals with developmental disabilities currently get the residential services and supports they need in their own homes; however, occasionally vacancies occur in licensed facilities. Individuals typically live with family members or roommates or by themselves (as funding allows).

An individual chooses a home/apartment, condominium, duplex or house where he or she wants to live and the people with whom he or she will live (as funding and statute allows). An individual also selects a service provider from a list of certified providers.

If you are interested in starting a group home in your home, you can contact the Ohio Department of Health, which licenses adult care facilities and adult care homes, at (614) 466-7713. Such homes provide personal care services and supervision to all vulnerable adults, not just those with mental retardation. You can also call the Area Agency on Aging at (800) 258-7277 about adult care foster homes.

What are developmental disabilities?

A developmental disability is a mental or physical impairment that occurs before age 22, continues indefinitely and causes substantial difficulties in self-care, learning, mobility and economic independence.

Who are the people who have developmental disabilities?

Intellectual and developmental disabilities occur among all racial, ethnic, educational, social and economic backgrounds. Estimates are that out of every 100 people, two to three have some level of developmental disability.

What causes developmental disabilities?

Most are caused by a complex mix of factors, which may include genetics, parental health and behaviors, complications during birth, infections a mother may have during pregnancy or her child may have early in life, and exposure of a mother or child to high levels of environmental toxins. Some developmental disabilities, such as Fetal Alcohol Syndrome, are preventable. But the cause of many developmental disabilities remains unknown.

What is the difference between intellectual disabilities and mental illness?

Intellectual Disability

1. Intellectual disability refers to below average intellectual functioning.

2. Intellectual disabilities may result in impairment in social adaptation.

3. The rate of intellectual disabilities nationwide is estimated at 3 percent of the general population. In Ohio, the incidence is thought to be 1.4 to 1.9 percent of the general population.

Intellectual Disability

4. Intellectual disabilities can be present at birth or occur during the period of development.

Mental Illness

1. Mental illnesses are medical conditions that disrupt a person's thinking, feeling, mood, ability to relate to others, and daily functioning. Just as diabetes is a disorder of the pancreas, mental illnesses are medical conditions that often result in a diminished capacity for coping with the ordinary demands of life. Mental illness has nothing to do with intelligence.

Serious mental illnesses include major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), panic disorder, post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), and borderline personality disorder.

2. A person with a mental illness may be very competent socially, but may have a character disorder or other aberration.

3. Mental disorders fall along a continuum of severity. Even though mental illness disorders are widespread in the population, the main burden of illness is concentrated in a much smaller proportion — about 6 percent, or 1 in 17 Americans — who suffer from a serious mental illness. It is estimated that mental illness affects 1 in 5 families in America.

Mental Illness

4. Mental illnesses can affect persons of any age, race, religion, or income. Mental illnesses are not the result of personal weakness, lack of character, or poor upbringing. Mental illnesses are treatable. Most people diagnosed with a serious mental illness can experience relief from their symptoms and manage symptoms by actively participating in an individual treatment plan.

5. With intellectual disabilities, some degree of intellectual impairment can be expected to be permanent.

5. Individuals with mental illness and their families receive support and services from private practice, their local mental health authority (which may be county-based or regional) and the Ohio Department of Mental Health.

6. A person with intellectual disabilities can be expected to behave rationally at his/her functional level.

6. A person with mental illness may vacillate between normal and irrational behavior.

7. People with intellectual disabilities can also experience different types of mental illness with symptoms such as hallucinations or severe depression, secondary to the condition of intellectual disability.

7. The term mental illness covers a wide variety of symptoms that may indicate that someone is in emotional trouble, including: belligerence, excessive moodiness, suspicion and mistrust, or poor emotional control.
